Mother's

By Victoria R. Crosby

Some of us were raised by biological mothers, adopted families nurtured others,
or family members and women from the neighborhood gave you loving attention whenever they could.

It takes a village, the saying goes,
to raise a child, and heaven knows it is the most difficult job you will ever undertake, and is impossible to do without mistake.

Mothers warn their children of life's problems before they arise, yet it is very hard to see the world through your mother's eyes.
A woman's intuition can be very strong,
a mother's intuition is rarely wrong.

No one likes to hear the words 'I told you so'
but there will be times you'll realize that she was right, you know.

Once you are a mother you will understand that your mother did the best she could with the knowledge at hand.

There are no degrees in motherhood,
by trial and error most mothers learn.
To raise an emotionally healthy child is the doctorate that you earn.

Huntington Plants 200 Trees
for Arbor Day

By Maureen Daly

Huntington celebrated National Arbor Day with over 150 local students and community leaders planting 200 saplings at Koster Park in South Huntington.

Huntington Supervisor Ed Smyth led the planting of the new trees, and addressed the Huntington High School students and local scout troops who volunteered to do the planting.

The students and scouts planted 200 bare root saplings, consisting of 25 each of Flowering Dogwood, Highbush Cranberry, Buttonbush, Ninebark, Black Chokeberry, Virginia Rose, Witch Hazel, and Winterberry.

April 29th was the 150th celebration of National Arbor Day in America.

The first Arbor Day ever was held in the small Spanish village of Mondoñedo (now Alameda de los Remedios) and was organized by its mayor in 1594. The village celebrated the arrival of Spring by planting lime and chestnut trees.

In America, the holiday is designated as a day to inspire planting, caring for plants, climbing trees and educating yourself and others about the importance of trees.

housing coalition vice president Roger Weaving. "We should all strive to be as good a citizen as Ken Christensen."

"Ken was a father of the Huntington Township Housing Coalition and an author of the accessory apartment law. He was instrumental in creating the town law that required an affordable housing set-aside component," noted local housing leader Richard Koubek. "Every person who needed affordable housing his feeling his loss."

Top Court Throws-out “Hochulmander” New Districts Ordered

By Niall Fitzgerald
The June primary elections for US Congress and NYS Senate have been pushed off, all the district lines canceled, and every candidate who filed last month is now “off the ballot” and must requalify.
The New York State Court of Appeals rejected all the new congressional and New York State Senate districts drawn by the one-party Democratic state legislature and signed into law in March by Gov Kathy Hochul (D-Buffalo).

The Court, all of whose members are Democrats, declared that the lines drawn by Hochul and the legislature were grossly and blatantly “illegal” because they were an extreme “gerrymander” that effectively eliminated Republicans, and created a one-party Democratic state.
The Court also declared that the Legislature and Hochul had frustrated the work of the bi-partisan Redistricting Commission in order to push through their illegal one-party gerrymander.
The Court ordered an upstate trial

Judge to appoint a Special Master to draw the new lines - and get it done by late May.
When the new Senate and US Congress districts are drawn, the process opens again, with candidates having to circulate petitions and gather signatures in June - to re-qualify for the ballot - with primary elections in late August and the general election in November.
“The Democrats - including my opponent Jim Gaughran (D-Huntington) - tried to cheat the public by rigging the election system to leave themselves in power - forever,” said Mark Capodanno, a former Huntington councilman. “Thankfully the Top Court stopped them.”

Governor Kathy Hochul

The now-rejected north shore US Congress district - that Hochul had created - was widely criticized because it would have connected Long Island to the Bronx, and then into a snake-like tentacle into Westchester, and finally into another tentacle reaching 40 miles north to end at the eastern runway of Westchester airport outside White Plains.
The new Senate and US Congress district lines are due out from the Special Master by May 23rd.

Huntington Hedge Fund Manager Guilty in $700M Fraud

By Rupert Deedes
Edward Walczak, former portfolio manager for the Huntington, N.Y.-based Catalyst Capital Advisors, was found guilty of perpetrating an investment fraud that lost investors over $700 million.
The U.S. District Court in the Western District of Wisconsin found Walczak liable for engaging in fraudulent and deceitful conduct toward investors, potential investors, and investment advisors.
The 5-day trial was the result of action brought by the US Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) against Walczak on 27 January 2020, which alleged that he misrepresented how he managed risk in the Catalyst Hedged Futures Strategy Fund.
The CFTC charged that between December 2016 and February 2017, Catalyst and Walczak lied to investors by falsely claiming that his firm abided by a strict set of risk parameters - investment rules - which would prevent losses of more than 8 percent. But that claim by Walczak was not true.

“The fund lost hundreds of millions of dollars—approximately 20 percent of its value—from December 2016 through February 2017 as markets moved against it,” charged the CFTC.
“True and accurate disclosures are critical to investor protection,” said CGTC’s Acting Director of Enforcement Vincent McGonagle. “As we said at the outset of this case, the CFTC is committed to holding accountable individuals who misstate the risks of investing in their products.”

Suoizzi Brings $33M In Environmental Funding

By Maureen Daly
Congressman Tom Suozzi (D-Glen Cove) announced last week that he has helped secure over 33 million dollars in federal funding for environmental causes throughout Long Island's north shore.
Over $30 million of the $33 million is dedicated to restoring the Long Island Sound. This funding represents a 900 % increase in environmental funding since Suozzi took office in 2017.
Suozzi was able to secure the funding through community project funding which allows members of Congress to request funding to support specific community projects that will have the most real-life impacts in their districts. Five out of eight of Suozzi’s community projects include environmental clean up and restoration projects.
In addition to the $31 million dedicated to the Long Island Sound, Suozzi has secured over $2 million for other projects. A total of $300,000 will fund shellfish seeding in Hempstead Harbor, Oyster Bay and Huntington Harbors. And $600,000 will fund stormwater management in Little Neck Bay’s Alley Pond, Linnaeus Park and Udalls Cove.

$1 million was allocated to renovating North Hempstead Beach Park. A pump station in Glen Cove received $1 million for rehabilitation.
Approximately 10 million seed clams will be placed across the Hempstead, Oyster Bay and Huntington Harbors. These seed clams are expected to filter the water while also producing enough larvae for the future. The Little Neck Bay stormwater management will improve water quality across Alley Pond, Linnaeus Park and Udalls Cove.
“I have devoted a significant part of my past 25 years in public service to cleaning up the pollution, dramatically reducing nitrogen, modernizing sewage treatment plants and restoring shell fishing in our local waters,” Suozzi said. “This $33 million, one of the largest single federal investments in environmental cleanup and restoration across Long Island and north-east Queens, will go a long way in restoring and improving the Long Island Sound for generations to come.”

MARGARET MARCHAND FOR LV SCHOOL BOARD

There are school board elections this month all across the north shore - and the stakes have never been higher.

For two years, the politicians and teacher’s unions have used and tortured our children - forcing them into endless, useless “virtual education,” and forcing children to be gagged with medical masks. We can choose the usual crop of candidates looking to network their businesses, always deferential to the teachers unions - or we can choose people with courage, who will fight for our children.

A Johns Hopkins University study has estimated that the developmental damage done over the past two years has set our children back an average of over seven (7) months - with millions of children suffering permanent medical and psychological damage.

In July, 2021, then-Governor Cuomo ended mandatory school masking of children in New York - leaving the decision to each school board.

The Locust Valley School Board then voted to end mandatory masking. A sensible decision, since “the science” proved that Covid was not a danger to children (a 0% fatality rate among healthy children) and that forced child masking caused real medical (elevated CO2, bronchial infections) and psychological damage.

In August, Cuomo resigned and was replaced by Kathy Hochul. She needed political support from the increasingly radical teachers unions, so Hochul - without even consulting medical experts - re-imposed forced masking of children. She then directly threatened the Locust Valley School Board to reverse its earlier vote.

When the Board met, only one Board member - Margaret Marchand - voted to oppose Hochul - and to sue the Governor to protect our children. The rest of the Board caved-in. Five months later, the NYS Supreme Court ruled that Hochul was wrong - and ended forced child masking.

Margaret Marchand cares about our kids. She cares about our children's health and she cares about educational excellence. And she is not afraid.

The Leader endorses Margaret Marchand - and all those across the North Shore who are willing to stand up for our children. Please vote - and choose carefully.

MAY IS MENTAL HEALTH
AWARENESS MONTH

To the Editor;

As a volunteer and advocate with the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention, this month I am asking everyone to join us and demand #MoreForMentalHealth.

Depression runs in my family and it would wonderful it were given the attention it needs so that future generations need not suffer.

I am doing more by calling on my legislators at the federal and state levels to support legislation that will fund the implementation of 988 and the suicide and mental health crisis system across our nation, particularly for those in underserved communities.

Currently, the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline is available at 1-800-273-8255 and de-escalates the crises of tens of thousands of callers each day. On July 16, those in distress and those that support them will be able to reach the Lifeline through a simple 3-digit number: 988. By making the Lifeline more accessible through this shorter number, calls, texts, and chats to the Lifeline's network of crisis call centers are expected to increase. It is vital that the federal government work with states to ensure callers in distress will have: 1) someone to call, 2) someone to come help, and 3) somewhere safe to go. We must act NOW to secure funding to equip call centers and community crisis response services throughout the country with the staff and resources to respond to everyone in crisis.

Join me this month in urging our federal and state public officials to do #MoreForMentalHealth. You can start by visiting moreformentalhealth.org.

Together, we can help #StopSuicide.

Elsa Dessberg

CELEBRATE MOTHER'S DAY

To the Editor;

Celebrate Mother's Day anyway you can but don't miss the opportunity to honor mom. The opportunities pass us by. While mom is alive is the time to do something for her. Too often someone dies and we want to make sure we attend their funeral and buy flowers. We talk about missed opportunities. While your special person is alive is the time to cherish and make a big deal about that person.

Do what you can do. Mom's simply want to know you care. Mom could clean out the garage or clean the house. Spend a day working in the yard or trimming shrubbery. People buy flowers and take mom out to dinner typically on Mother's Day. It is no secret that flowers have become even more expensive and many restaurants are having employee issues. If you had to wait to be served in the past this Mother's Day may be challenging. Consider taking mom a card and writing her a letter. Tell her how you feel about her and thank her for being a great mom. The main thing is don't forget the day. If you are a long way from home by all means make a phone call.

I know some great mothers. My wife is a phenomenal mother. I have sisters, daughters and a daughter in law who are great mothers.

My mother has been in heaven for a long time and so has the mother of my two sons. Mother's Day is a tough day for them as they lost their mother when they were 20 and 17 year's old. My wife's mother passed just a few years ago. It happens. The chair at the table suddenly is empty and all you are left with are pictures and memories.

I miss the long telephone conversations with my mother. We talked on the telephone for 30 minutes sometimes twice a week. When I was a child, she was my advocate. She was my school tutor. We didn't eat out growing up so she kept food on the table three times a day. When I was a small child, we still had a wringer washing machine and the water was not great. We caught rain water in large tubs and then carried it in to wash clothes. I remember a couple of summers of carrying water from the creek to wash clothes. She ironed clothes for an entire day every week. It was a great day when we were finally able to have an automatic washer and dryer.

Mom worked hard and about twice a week dressed up really nice and she and dad went to church. Like most of our mothers I could write a lot about her but Eula Hinkle Mollette was a wonderful mother. She loved me, corrected me and supported me. I know there were times I disappointed her but she never disconnected from me. She was always there as best as she could be.

The point is don't miss celebrating Mother's Day. You only have one mom. Cherish every minute.

TAXPAYERS' DAY – MAY 17, 2022

To the Editor;

Although an extra $457M in NY state financial aid is appropriated to 120-plus school districts in Nassau and Suffolk counties, most residents in their respective school districts will see a hike in their school taxes. One could say, "How is that possible"? But it is! Over the years many school districts accumulated "Vast Reserves Funds" from the hard-working taxpayers on Long Island in which schools held onto, in what was called their "Raining Day Funds". These funds were already allocated to these school districts from the taxpayers that paid year after year increases in taxes to their school districts. Some school districts on Long Island accumulated anywhere between 10 M to as much as 30 M in their "Raining Day Funds". As a result of these two major components, all Long Island taxpayers in their respective school districts should see a 0% increase in their school taxes for this year, and 0% increase for years to come, anything less will be unacceptable!

Sincerely yours,
Joseph Capozzi

Op-Ed: End the Political Games on Gerrymandering

By STEVE LEVY

I have long criticized both major parties for the political games they play in practicing gerrymandering, the politically motivated redrawing of legislative district lines.

The concept got its name from former Governor Eldridge Gerry of Massachusetts, who in 1812, signed off on the redrawing his state's legislative district lines in a convoluted way in order to maximize the reelection efforts of his own political party, the Democratic-Republicans, and disfavor the reelection chances of the opposition, the Federalists.

One of the districts he drew was so elongated and distorted that people said it looked like a salamander. Local wits quickly re-labeled the convoluted lines as

Steve Levy

"Not a salamander, but a Gerry-mander."

Rather than drawing the lines based upon geographic borders or lines separating different towns, politicians have been drawing the lines to maximize the number of Democratic districts for Democratic incumbents and Republican districts for Republican incumbents. This has led to many of these districts looking like an octopus, rather than a rectangle. Many reformers have tried to change this politically charged system for quite some time. Suffolk County did so in 2007. New York State did so in 2014. But the good intentions of both of these good government measures was thwarted by political intervention by the parties in power.

In Suffolk County, the law created an independent district drawing Commission consisting of good government groups and retired judges. Yet just last year in 2021, the party in power in the County Legislature (the Democrats) by-passed the Commission, and moved forward with their own politically drawn map, while claiming that the Commission judges were not appointed in time.

The matter went to court. Thankfully, the bill to effectuate the bogus plan was vetoed by the county executive. A bipartisan Commission has now been appointed, and it is presently drawing a new set of lines. Let's hope this process works out the way it should. On the state level, ALL the new congressional and NYS Senate district lines - enacted by the NYS Legislature and signed into law by Governor Hochul in March - were rejected as illegal land overturned last week by the Court of Appeals, New York's highest court. The court pushed back the primary to August, and ordered a neutral special master to go back and draw non-political lines. The ultimate answer is to change the process by which the independent district lines must be approved by the state legislature: If they are drawn by a non-partisan commission then the independent lines should automatically take effect unless the legislature, through a super-majority, rejects the independent commission's findings.

Reflections of a Bygone Era

“Laurelton Hall” (part two)

BY ORIN Z. FINKLE

This “Reflections” article continues, concerning Louis Comfort Tiffany’s whimsical and wonderful country estate, Laurelton Hall. Hope you retained part one of this piece from a few weeks ago in order to refresh ye ole memory. So once again, let’s look back upon this attractive Laurel Hollow, Long Island grand estate.

As soon as Mr. Tiffany embarked on his imposing project of creating an imposing Laurelton Hall during 1902, he was determined to personally oversee every aspect of its execution. Because he designed and individually planned all of the intricate details, Tiffany looked forward to inspecting the project as it came together exactly in the manner that he had desired. From the architectural strategies to the interior scheme and constant flowering landscape requirements, all was to be blended and organized in a pure state of natural harmony. The formation would consume three years of continuous labor, assembly with constant design changes to complete the basic cream colored stucco Moorish mansion and entrance gatehouse road which commenced the long winding drive. The natural contours of the countryside and landscaping were artfully crafted in establishing the master plan for the property, while taking full advantage of the sites magnificent, unique vistas.

Besides the multitude of garden flora blooming from early spring through vibrant autumn, the exterior stucco walls of the mansion reflected daylight in shades ranging from gleaming white, appearing in the morning sun, to a muted gray as dusk approached. The beautiful shimmering stained glass windows presented the interiors with various hues as the sun rose and later as sunset began. Tiffany was quite focused on the color shadings of all surfaces, from floors to high ceilings utilizing complex patterns derived from natural, historic and strong Native American influences. The grand rooms at Laurelton Hall, contained museum quality display cases meant to fascinate people by presenting the finest examples of Favrite glass pieces as well as his vast collection of rare antiques and ceramics which he carefully brought back from trips to China, Italy and North Africa.

One of the various interior highlights of Laurelton Hall was the Fountain Court, which served as the distinctive and imaginative interior entrance centerpiece. This large space, three stories in height, was constructed to highlight a central water fountain which made its way through an exclusive four foot tall Favrite glass vase sitting in an octagonal tiled pool. The continuously flow spouting from the vase was illuminated by a diverse array of colored lights reflecting subtle mood patterns. The pool was encompassed by arrangements of seasonal plantings, some which extended to the upper marble columned balconies. A violet toned leaded glass dome above the court, cast numerous shadings throughout the Court all day long. The living and dining rooms, located directly off the centrally positioned Fountain Court, provided open picturesque views of the Long Island Sound and Tiffany’s multiple terraced gardens.

Circa 1907. The fountain court displaying the central glass creation & upper balcony.

In 1913 a pamphlet was published by Tiffany’s firm entitled “Character and Individuality in Decorations and Furnishings”. It summed up his rudimentary feelings and ideals about Laurelton Hall as well as the pure direction of his life’s work. “Every really great structure is simple in its lines, as in nature. Every great scheme of decoration thrusts no one note upon the eye. The charm of homes of refinement is in the artistic blending that is revealed when everything has its place and purpose and when every detail unites to form one perfect and complete whole”.

By 1918 he established the Louis Comfort Tiffany Foundation by appropriating a base sum of about 1.5 million dollars. He legally set aside a 62 acre portion of the estate for his personal art collection to be displayed and this endowment was used to manage the foundation. He chose young, very talented artists to reside within the peaceful confines of the estate grounds for months at a time. The surroundings would afford the ideal free spirited atmosphere conducive for concentration and would bring fourth to the surface an artist’s creative thoughts and ideas. Tiffany converted the characteristic stables and additional outbuildings into individual art studios and a dining facility to house, feed and care for these gifted young artists. They would be trained to hone their skills, reside and work in peace during the warmer months and upon request present a periodic review of their progress to Mr. Tiffany.

This was a means of preserving his legacy, personal artistic style while searching for interesting new directions within the art world. Laurelton Hall was to be, as he mentioned “a place where students could find a stimulus in the surroundings and provide contact with other “fellows” and accomplished artists.” They were encouraged to work at their art but given no specific approach except to consider close collaboration with each other.

After their stay, students were to leave at the estate, a selected piece of their work as an example of their accomplished studies. Eventually, the Foundation endowment investment fell on hard times due to the 1929 stock market crash. Tiffany made all financial attempts possible under difficult circumstances in order to keep the organization viable.

Following Tiffany’s death in January of 1933, and burial at the family plot at the well-known Greenwood Cemetery in Brooklyn, the Foundation was able to bestow some grants and gain a tax exempt status as an educational institution. Just to note, some others interred at this cemetery include Leonard Bernstein, Horace Greely, DeWitt Clinton and Louis’ father Charles Lewis Tiffany.

But by 1942 the Research Committee of the Council of National Defense utilized the property for anti-submarine warfare research. Laurelton Hall was returned to the Foundation after the war, but maintenance costs continuously proved to be extremely high. By 1946, most of Tiffany’s amassed personal art collection was sold by Parke-Bernet Galleries at auction. In later years the gallery was known as Sotheby’s. Some art work and personal effects were divided amongst family members and various estate land parcels were sold off to developers, with any profits used to maintain the Foundation. Sadly, some sections from Tiffany’s beautiful creation, the re-assembled chapel building was disposed of in order to raise funds. The remainder of the Laurelton Hall property was sold for a mere $10,000 in 1949 to a couple wishing a large summer cottage. Now, that must have been some grand “summer cottage”! But, the devastating 1957 fire, as exposed in part one of this article, brought final closure to by then, a run down and rapidly decaying estate compound.

Soon after the fire, Hugh and Jeanette McKean were invited to view the remains of Laurelton Hall and Chapel, by Tiffany’s daughter. She was aware of McKean’s long time admiration for her father. Fortunately, Hugh McKean, a man of means, had once been a youthful “fellow” artist at Laurelton Hall during 1930 and was able to salvage many of the remaining original stained glass windows, numerous artifacts and portions of the unique interior decoration from the abandoned estate. He donated them to the Charles Hosmer Morse Museum of American Art, at Winter Park, Florida, just outside of Orlando.

The superb and unique museum currently contains the most comprehensive collection of Tiffany’s work to be found anywhere in the world. He also bequeathed the exceptional four columned front loggia of Laurelton Hall to the MET. A love of nature and beauty had connected Mr. McKean to Louis Comfort Tiffany and his unforgettable stay at Tiffany’s country estate had been a great inspiration to his future career.

Mr. McKean passed away in 1995, shortly after narrating an interesting and informative documentary concerning Tiffany’s life, works, desires and talents. I’m proud to say that I made a contribution with rare period photos utilized from my archive relating to Tiffany, his family and his Laurelton Hall property, for this film. Most of Tiffany’s glorious dreams, ideals and projects will survive forever, thankfully not abandoned and remaining to be buried and forgotten amongst the scattered ashes of Long Islands once vibrant grand estate compounds. This sadly is another chapter of our Long Island local history, where a grand mansion was solidly constructed in order to endure hundreds of years, merely survived fifty. It appears that overall, senseless manor house destruction trends continue annually. Many classic, historic properties still remain unprotected. I’m sure that we will witness perpetual Gatsby estate departures in future years. New and unfeeling generations will most likely observe future actions.

Anyway, hoping you all continue stay safe, be strong and remain healthy in today’s very bizarre and frightening world. “God bless America”!! So glad that over the decades, our nation has, for the most part, thankfully evolved into a loving, caring great country with many “real”, concerned and down to earth people. Till next time!

LV Garden Club April: Golden Flowers, Gold Coast Mansions

Sallie McNeill Rynd, Lucille DeVito, Gary Lawrence, Dean Yoder and Josie Bliss.

By DAGMAR FORS KARPPI

“We are surrounded by flowers,” said Locust Valley Garden Club President Dean Yoder, looking around their meeting room at Mill Neck Manor. Each table sported a bouquet of forsythia and pots of pansies, bringing spring inside. Lucille DeVito and Kassie Miller Roth created them for the room, and Priscilla Thomson enhanced the buffet table with tulips, forsythia, daffodils and pastel eggs. The culinary centerpiece of the luncheon table was a baked ham cooked by Dean Yoder and Jonathon Grimm, VP. The sides were made by members and the dessert table they created was overflowing. That included chocolate mousse served with heaps of whipped cream! One of the club’s perks, is its home prepared luncheon dishes.

There were even leftovers, and Josie Bliss, environmental chair offered a clue on how to save the planet by bringing along your own re-useable plastic containers to take restaurant leftovers home. [They make the best breakfasts!]

She talked about the insidious appearance of microplastics in our water and food streams, and that by making small changes ourselves, we can eliminate items from the plastic waste stream, Josie explained. That includes carrying your own re-useable water flask. “According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the US has one of the world’s safest drinking water supplies,” she stated.

She also suggested using Earthbreeze laundry detergent sheets purchased on the Internet. They eliminate the use of carrying home heavy plastic detergent containers that just end up in the waste stream

Guest speaker, Gary Lawrence, architect and historian of the Gold Coast mansions showed photographs of the homes built during the Gilded Age by wealthy merchants when the established society ignored them. The photos show the houses nested inside the original treed landscape of Long Island - before development. They included pictures of the cultivated gardens of the estates following the example of Europe. They even brought in aged trees to give the impression of the estates having been there for generations.

Sallie McNeill Rynd, horticulture chair brought primroses to the meeting.

“A friend of mine divided a clump of primroses and shared them with me. I planted them successfully in my garden. They are one of the first perennials to bloom magically in the spring. I love that they are delicate and yet hardy.” Some varieties even reseed themselves.

LVGC members will be lunching next on Wednesday, May 11 a.m., at Mill Neck Manor starting at 10 a.m. The program is a petit flower show with the theme of recycling. Donation $15. New members are welcome, just bring a love of horticulture. For more information, please contact Dean Yoder at dyinteriors@yahoo.com.

North Shore Wildlife Sanctuary

Founded 1929

Please join us for an afternoon with nature in “Shu Swamp” – NSWS’s premier sanctuary. Shu Swamp is a wooded wetland of towering Tulip trees, Red Maples, and Tupelo, fed by many springs and seeps. Beaver Brook flows through it and is home to Brown Trout, Sticklebacks, and the rare American Brook Lamprey.

The swamp’s high-quality environment is also home to an amazing number of ephemeral spring flowers such as Trout lily, Marsh Marigold, Dwarf Ginseng, Spring Beauty and many more. An abundance of ferns as well as rare plants, such as the shrub ‘Hearts-a-Bustin’, found nowhere else in New York State, can be found here. The shallow pond provides mud flats for shore birds and the tall trees a habitat for nesting Great Horned Owls and Wood Ducks. Mink and Muskrats have at times used the waterways. We also have the occasional Otter sighting!

“We are pleased to welcome Mrs. Alicea-Cosme to our school district and community,” Board of Education President Amelia W. Brogan said. “We are confident her knowledge and professional experience will be an asset to Goosehill Primary School.”

For the past 18 years, Mrs. Alicea-Cosme has served as an educator and administrator in the New York City Public Schools and as an administrator in Valley Stream #30 School District. Mrs. Alicea-Cosme began her career as a kindergarten teacher and served in this role for 12 years. Her administrative career began in 2016 at The Children’s Lab School 343 in Queens. The Children’s Lab School opened in 2014 where she was a founding member of the administrative team, assisting with building curriculum, implementing a full roll out of SEL responsive classrooms, and creating a system for technology implementation. Mrs. Alicea-Cosme is fully trained in Responsive Classroom and believes in the importance of a social emotional program that is embedded into the everyday curriculum to empower early childhood students to build independence and success.

For the past three years, she has served as an assistant principal in the Valley Stream #30 School District. During that time, she embraced various roles including serving as the districtwide support administrator for the balanced literacy framework, grades pre-K-2 supervisor for the Shaw Avenue School, and districtwide kindergarten administrative partner. She has extensive expertise in the balanced literacy framework and has experience working with Teachers College Reading and Writing Institute, similar to the Cold Spring Harbor School District literacy programs.

In her six years as an assistant principal, she served as New York State testing coordinator, technology point person, teacher evaluator, hiring committee member and school safety committee member.

“Thank you to the Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools Jill Gierasch for this opportunity to work with the students, staff and families in the Goosehill Primary School,” Christina Alicea-Cosme said. “I look forward to sharing my love for early childhood education and building lasting relationships with students, families and staff members while continuing to build upon the legacy of success at Goosehill Primary School.”

Mrs. Alicea-Cosme holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Early Childhood Education from Brooklyn College, a Master of Science in Education degree in Teaching Students with Disabilities in Early Childhood and an advanced certificate in School Building Leadership and School District Leadership from LIU Brooklyn. She is a lifelong learner who enjoys supporting staff with new and innovative best practices to provide children with strategies that help them develop the social, emotional and cognitive skills needed to become lifelong learners. This summer she will begin working on her Doctoral Studies in Educational Policy and Leadership K-12 at Hofstra University.

Bayville Intermediate School student-thespians performed “The Wizard of Oz Jr.” to the delight and applause of entranced Bayville Intermediate School students on April 13, and then for parents later in the evening. The student-performers attend Mainstages, an after-school program directed by Matt Dorter, Katherine Herbert, JoLisa Jones and Bailey Reynolds. Program manager Courtney Cook Naftz said that every student who attended the Mainstages camp was given a part, but there were auditions for the main characters.

The “The Wizard of Oz Jr. was a one-hour adaptation of the original “The Wizard of Oz,” specially tailored for elementary school students. The original characters Dorothy, the scarecrow, tinman, lion and the wizard were all expertly played and the students couldn’t help but to follow along with the beloved songs such as “We’re Off to See the Wizard,” “Follow the Yellow Brick Road” and “Over the Rainbow.”

Very happy, talented performers.

Locust Valley High School’s Pre-Health Club, under the direction of Veronica Ciampi, raised $1,000, which will purchase a brick on the 2023 Inspirational Pathway of St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital.

Members raised funds through the selling of World Cancer Day shirts on Feb. 4, combined with monies raised during a bake sale.

The Pre-Health Club is a new organization whose mission is to help support, inform and inspire tomorrow’s physicians and healthcare workers. The Pre-Health Club meets once a month to discuss fundraising ideas and plan guest speaker days, as well as volunteer opportunities at local hospitals. On April 1, several medical professionals spoke with the high school’s IB Science class and club members about careers within the medical field. The guest speakers were specialists in the fields of internal medicine, emergency room medicine, ophthalmology, radiation therapy, nursing, hematology and oncology.

PHELAN, Joyce Campbell of New York City and Dorset, Vermont died peacefully at the age of 86 on April 19, 2022, at her home in Dorset. She was the beloved wife of the late John J. Phelan. She is survived by her sister Janet Kettner, and her three sons John C. Phelan, David C. Phelan, and Peter M. Phelan. Joyce died as a result of complications from Parkinson's Disease which she had struggled with for several years. Joyce is remembered by all who knew her as a loving mother and devoted friend who had a genuine warmth and affection for all people regardless of their circumstances, social position, race, or nationality.

Joyce Catherine Campbell was born on June 5, 1935 and grew up in London. She and her close relatives survived the war years together in London while her father served in the British military in North Africa, Sicily, and Italy. The family, including younger sister Janet, remained in the London area during the post-war years as the city was rebuilt. After completing school and working at the Fleet Street office of the now-defunct Dublin Evening News, Joyce decided to see what life was like in America and, in 1954, arranged an extended visit which included a job at the Long Island Lighting Company. During this time, she met John Phelan of Garden City, who had recently returned from Korea with the Marine Corps. When Joyce went back home, John followed her to the UK with no specific plans and they were married in Chingford, near London, in 1955. After moving back to the U.S., they were soon followed by her parents and Janet who also settled on Long Island. Joyce and John lived for many years in Garden City, where John had grown up, and in the late 1970's moved to Lattington in the Locust Valley area. Since John's death in 2012, Joyce has lived primarily in New York City and Dorset, Vermont.

Joyce had an active volunteer career. In the 1960's, she became involved with Mercy Hospital, a Catholic hospital based in Rockville Centre, NY. She became president of the Garden City Mercy League in 1964 and served in that capacity for three years. Subsequently, she served as president for all the Mercy League volunteer organizations in various towns around the region. In the early 1970's, Joyce assumed the presidency of an organization overseeing all the volunteer leagues of hospitals in Nassau and Suffolk counties – both secular and with religious affiliations – and in that capacity represented them and their interests in Albany on issues confronting hospitals. In 1980, she joined the board of Empire Blue Cross/Blue Shield in New York State representing the interests of the Catholic hospital system in New York City. In 1989, in special recognition of her contributions to the Catholic health care system in New York State, Joyce received an award from the New York Medical College for her dedicated volunteer service.

When John moved from working as a specialist on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange to be more involved in managing and advocating for the exchange as its President in 1980, Joyce travelled extensively with him throughout the United States. Later when John rose to be chairman of the NYSE in 1984, and later as chairman of the Federation of International Stock Exchanges, Joyce was a mainstay of the NYSE travel delegation on official visits to Paris, Rome, Milan, Venice, London, Oslo, Amsterdam, Moscow, St. Petersburg, Tokyo, Hong Kong, Beijing, Sydney, Melbourne, and Singapore, among others. During six state dinners at the White House and on these international travels throughout the 1980's, Joyce met and made an impression on a long list of world leaders and their spouses including President Reagan, Prime Minister Thatcher of the U.K., the Prince of Wales, Prime Minister Chirac of France, President Gorbachev of the Soviet Union, Prime Minister Nakasone of Japan, and Chairman Deng Xiaoping of China, among others. Although she would never consider herself as a “businessperson”, Joyce was a major contributor to these events and their successes through her welcoming and warm presence which transcended all languages and nationalities.

Joyce's greatest joy and primary focus was always with her family including raising her sons, caring for her mother-in-law and mother as they aged, enjoying the company of her adult sons and daughters-in-law, and delighting in her grandchildren and great grandchildren. Her family included her late parents, Horace and Katherine Campbell; her sister and brother-in-law, Janet and Larry Kettner and their three sons; her sisters-in-law, Elizabeth Lawlor and the late Susan Silbaugh and their children; her “cousins in law” Sarah and Kathleen Phelan; and of course, her three sons and daughters in law, John C. and Laurie Phelan, David C. and Cynthia, Peter M. and Sheila; six grandchildren David G., Kate, Grace, Campbell, Malcolm, and Ian; and three great grandchildren, Christine, Bridget, and Aspen. Joyce also remained in contact with numerous aunts, uncles, and cousins among her family in the U.K. In recent years, she has been blessed to have her children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren gather around her and celebrate a life well lived. All of her extended family will miss her genuine warmth of spirit, generous nature, and non-judgmental dedication to family. Joyce will also be missed by many friends from Garden City, Locust Valley, New York City, and Vermont who will remember her as a loyal, caring friend who shared her warmth and optimism with them over the years.

A funeral mass with immediate family was held at St. Paul's Church in Manchester, Vermont and Joyce was interred at Holy Rood Cemetery on Long Island. An additional memorial service and reception for friends and family will be held in New York City in the month of May.

In lieu of flowers, please make a gift to Catholic Charities of New York, an organization with which both Joyce and John had longstanding involvement. Please note that the gift is in memory of Joyce C. Phelan. You can make a gift online at catholiccharitiesny.org or by mail to: Catholic Charities of New York, Office of Development, 1011 First Avenue, 11th Floor, New York, NY 10022

RUTHKOWSKI, Yolanda Ceglia, 96, of Glen Cove, New York, passed away on April 29, 2022. Yolanda was born in Glen Cove to Italian born parents, Carlo and Filacetta Ceglia and was one of eleven Ceglia children, all of whom preceded her in death. Yolanda was a lifelong volunteer and member of St. Rocco's Church, a parish that she loved dearly. She was deeply religious and showed this in her commitment to the Church through her efforts for the Rosary Society and many years' worth of fundraising and other endeavors. She “worked the Feast” virtually every year from its inception as a church event, eventually being dubbed the “salad queen.” She stood only 5 feet tall but she was a force of nature. She was feisty, tenacious, and there wasn't a single polka she didn't like. The love for her church was only surpassed by the love she had for her family and friends. Yolanda passionately and unapologetically held all of her loved ones dear. She is preceded in death by her beloved husband Frank Ruthkowski and her son John Ruthkowski, both of whom she has missed somberly. She is survived by her precious daughter Phylis Ruthkowski Gallick and son-in-law Paul in whom Yolanda was so very grateful for their caring dedication to her. She has five grandchildren; Nicholas Gallick (Samantha); Colleen Gallick Volberg (Tom); Allison Ruthkowski (Todd); Robin Ruthkowski; and Jeremy Ruthkowski (Audrey). She currently has six great-grandchildren as a new Volberg baby is to arrive very soon; William, Jonathon, Nistashia, Abigail, Oliver, and Lilly. She has eight great-grandchildren. Finally, she is survived by so many beautiful nieces and nephews, cousins and friends, there are more than can be named after such a lifespan. Though the Matriarch of our family has passed on, and our hearts are leaden, we celebrate her passing to meet the many loved ones and siblings “Londy” has painfully lost along the way. Interment: Calverton National Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, please send donations to Church of St. Rocco, Glen Cove, NY. www.dodgethomas.com
